THE CASE

Abnormal Security, an AI behavioral-security leader, raised a $250M Series D at a $5.1B valuation and has publicly targeted operating as a public company. It has the capacity and the brand-building motive of a pre-IPO leader, sits in the open cybersecurity category, and has never entered motorsport.

WHY NOW

Pre-IPO leaders invest in enterprise brand to support a listing; the open security category rewards a first mover.

WHY HAAS

Haas offers an accessible, lean entry tier with open enterprise-software categories - a sensible first motorsport step at a sensible price.

VALUE TO HAAS — MODE A (TECH IN THE CAR / CHAMPIONSHIP)

MODE A. F1 teams are high-value targets for business email compromise and social engineering; Abnormal's platform is a credible security partner with real protective value and CISO-facing storytelling.

DEAL ARCHITECTURE

Official security partner tier, minimum three years, ~$2.5-4M/yr, with category exclusivity.

MARKETING LEADERSHIP

Confirm current CMO; CEO Evan Reiser drives the IPO-readiness narrative.

OPENING ANGLE

"Pre-IPO is exactly when enterprise brand matters most. Security is open on the grid, and Haas is the smart, ownable first step. 25 minutes?"

SCORE COMPOSITION

TIMING

15 / 20

Raised $250M Series D at $5.1B; publicly targeting public-company readiness.

CAPACITY

16 / 20

$5.1B valuation, strong ARR growth; comfortably funds a value-to-mid tier.

BRAND FIT

15 / 20

AI behavioral security; cybersecurity category is open on the grid.

URGENCY

12 / 20

IPO-readiness window, but no acute external forcing function yet.

OPS FIT

14 / 20

MODE A: every team faces targeted phishing/social engineering - a real security use case.

RISKS & COUNTERS

SPEND DISCIPLINE PRE-IPO Public-company prep favours efficiency. Counter: Lead with measurable B2B pipeline and a value-tier entry, not title-level spend.
